Everflow were formed back in 1999 as a means of free expression upon a music idioma called metal. Their musical influences would vary upon almost everything so the last thing they wanted was to sound confusing. Since then Everflow realized that their one true calling could only come from such an outcome as power/prog metal would.

So since 2000, the date that the band became fully functional, Everflow are banging upon every given opportunity to shed all of their in's and out's upon stage. Released some promo CDs that time just to make sure anyone would listen, but it wasn't until June 2007 that they've decided to make a full length album of their own. Recordings took place in Ptolemaida and in the loveliest studio there could be named "Ghost studios". Two years later they would mix and master in Thessaloniki and, of course, everything is finally ready. So up we go for 2009, trying to be unique their own way, Everflow are chasing every chance they can get their hands on.

In July 2011 Everflow signed with Steel Gallery Records for their debut album "Abandoned". At present, is already working on new material for their next album, as well as seeking for live opportunities to promote their work on.
