Rex Mundi is a progressive metal band from Greece, formed in 2002. After countless personnel changes, the result was the band's first recorded output in 2007, the demo CD "Balance between madness and hope", which mixed aggressive elements along with numerous influences and received really positive feedback from media and fans.

The band has maintained a stable line up for the last couple of years and has shared the stage with bands such as: Nevermore, Cynic, Atheist, Rotting Christ, Septic Flesh, Sadist, Wastefall and has toured extensively all over Greece.

The band's debut full length "Perception In Design" was finally recorded in 2009 featuring guest appearances from members of Primordial, Rotting Christ, Nightfall, Wastefall and Siva Six. Produced by Dimitris Douvras in Lunatech Sound Studios during a three-month period, the album features ten tracks of forward thinking metal with plenty of hooks and surprises throughout and stellar, top-notch production.

In the fall of 2010 the band inked a deal with renowned label, Steel Gallery Records for the worldwide re-release of the album. The band's current plans are touring as much as possible to promote the album and to get new material underway.
