Being in the metal scene for about five years, publishing one demo, one EP and one album, Scorchers, is finally here for the release of the second studio album "Steal the Throne". The machine never stopped rolling, as the songwriting begun right after the production of the debut album. Meanwhile the band shared the stage with monster bands like Enforcer (SW) and Liege Lord (US) hoping for more action in the years to come.

The lyric content is pretty much about what the band was occupied with in "Armageddon...", plus some glances on the 'interpersonal relationships' and 'inner self' issues, all expressed delicately escorted by titanic riffs and solos. Melody, speed, anger and all the emotions you can expect from a heavy metal album in an uncertain era for human-kind as painted by the emotions of the German legend Andreas Marschall (Running Wild, Grave Digger, Blind Guardian, Kreator, Sodom).

"Steal the Throne" will steal your heart for sure.
